Dated 6th June 1914

Dear Sir,

In submitting a Descriptive account of Universities visited interviews with some specialists, and observations and recommendations suggested by a comparative study of modern University organisations, I request that no judgment be passed on the general principles of organisation advocated by me without a study of all the papers or if that is considered too long a process at least of the following chapters --Bristol Birmingham, Leeds Wisconsin, Education in Japan, Waseda, and the University of the Philippines

I have purposely refrained from entering into details and estimates of probable expenditure because a cut and dried scheme is rather premature at this stage. The issue that is of most momentous and vital import is the determination of the type of institution required Compared to this subjects like the formulation of the regular hierarchy of University authorities from Visitor to Registrar must be pronounced to be of secondary interest I therefore await the decision of Government on the following points before taking up other matters -- (a) Language (b) Faculties and Departments (c) Location of Colleges and (d) Incorporation of the University These problems are discussed in the last chapter of my report Though the number of departments is large it need not mean heavy financial outlay as it is only necessary to make a fair enough beginning, without attempting the immediate adoption of extremely high stardards If there is a University with an independent principle of growth the future will be assured for that would deperd entirely or ourselves and not as at present or an outside authority I may point out that movement is bourd to be slow in a University like Madras which is a federal organisation in which change is not possible without the concurrence of a large number of colleges and interests often at variance with each other A uritary institution can develop more rapidly

In case Government view with favour the idea of corstituting the University into a Corporation, I wou urge the advisibility of erdowing it with a permanent furd of Rs 25 or 30 lakhs from the Civil and Military station surplus funds which would absolutely secure i future A Corporation without independent or semi-indeperdent sources of income cannot have the freedom requisite for its healthy growth

Yours sincerely,

C R Reddy
